GIJIGOWI - AMIK GALLERY at INDIAN HILLS

THE MYSTERY

Limited Edition Print • Signed & Numbered by the Artist • Donald Vann

The gallery at Indian Hills presents a large selection of original images and prints by internationally known Indian artists. Cherokee artist Donald Vann captures the feelings of generations of Indian people with masterful use of subtle colors and graceful lines. His creations have a mystical quality that allows us to share some of the inner facets of the Indian soul.

TRADITIONAL ART

Indians of the woodlands have been utilizing their environment in a harmonious way since the beginning. Porcupine Quill Art and Black Ash splint baskets, made from raw materials gathered from the woodlands of the Great Lakes exemplify a truly unique indigenous art form. Traditional arts from many tribes of the Americas can be found in our gallery.

AMERICAN INDIAN WOOLEN COMPANY at INDIAN HILLS

Woolen goods have been a prized and staple source of comfort and warmth for people throughout the world. With the arrival of the white man to the Americas came sheep. Pueblo people quickly adapted sheep for food and began weaving its wool into tapestries which are now sought after the world over. Indian Hills carries a wide selection of Zapotec rugs and hand-woven Chimayo blankets and rugs. We are also proud to present the Collection of Classic blankets, bags and accessories by Pendleton Woolen Mills. For many years, these blankets have served and continue to be a standard of value to the American Indian. In addition, we carry a line of handcrafted white cedar furniture and beds, which compliment the beauty and color of these Indian designs.

BOOK STORE at INDIAN HILLS

Our book store has one of the largest collections of books dealing with the Indians of the Americas to be found anywhere in the Great Lakes area. Over one thousand titles are available dealing with Indian history, tradition, spirituality, Indian arts, clothing, biographical and auto-biographical books can be found at Indian Hills. We are your complete Indian book store. We also do special orders if you can't find what you're looking for.

INDIAN HILLS carries selected art of Indian and Inuit tribes from all over the North American continent. Indian Hills has many one-of-a-kind items, including birchbark and black ash baskets, beadwork, traditional Indian drums, and much, much more.
